

Program Learning Outcomes Applied Physics

1. Demonstrate proficiency with mathematics and mathematical concepts.
2. Work in a variety of technical, academic, and professional careers.
3. Demonstrate knowledge of classical and quantum classical and quantum mechanics, thermodynamics, electricity and magnetism, laboratory skills including basic digital electronics and computer interfaces to scientific equipment, special relativity, and scientific.
4. Work in a professional laboratory setting.