

Program Learning Outcomes Science and Technology Studies

1. Describe how science and technology have shaped society and how society has shaped science and technology in different times and places.
2. Describe with examples how controversies play a key role in the ongoing development of science, technology and society.
3. Possess skills in historical, social and philosophical modes of critical analysis of scientific and technical writing and practices.
4. Possess skills to convey how science, technology and society interact through written and oral presentation for diverse audiences.